FACULTY OF LAW
UNIVERSITY OF ALBERTA
1987-1988

Again it is a pleasure for me to have the opportunity of saying a few words in your yearbook. The transition from law student to articling student to member of the Bar, is a dramatic one. Essentially to this point you have been concerned almost exclusively with yourself and meeting the goals that you have set. From this point on, in the practise of law, you will be concerned almost exclusively with other people's problems and concerns and, in many cases, your own preferences, convenience, desires and wishes must subordinate themselves to those of your client. It is a demanding life, however, this, of course, is what in essence makes the practise of law so fascinating. It is the people aspect with its ever changing moods and situations which allows you to say each morning "I wonder what will happen at the office today". It is challenging, at times frustrating, and very demanding, but never dull!

It is also important to keep in mind that there is a long tradition in the legal profession in Alberta, of helping the beginner and of showing admiration and respect for the skill and achievements of others, even when these have worked to our own disadvantage. One always admires the professional competence of a colleague. We are children of the adversarial system. However, one of the hardest things for a layman to understand is that his lawyer may labour mightily and do an excellent job on his behalf without becoming enemies with his legal adversary. As Shakespeare said:

> Do as adversaries do in law.
> Strive mightily, but eat and drink as friends.

This advice is even more important as our profession expands in that one of the essence of a profession is the collegiality that must remain, if it is to survive as an independent entity.

The final thought I would like to leave with you is that as an individual trained in the law, there is a wide spectrum of opportunities open to you. As Sir Robert Megarry stated in an address at Osgoode Hall:

> . . . There is the wonderful range of lives that are open to you in the law. There is something for everyone. You may reveal in advocacy, negotiate great property deals, organize big commercial or corporate schemes, bring peace to troubled families, or practice in a score of other spheres. Or you might, I suppose, simply descend into the deplorable ranks of the mere money grubbing slobs. The range is vast, and some activities soon lead to others.

On behalf of all of my colleagues of the Faculty of Law, may I take this opportunity of wishing you success in your profession, good health and the self contentment that comes with a job well done.

MOOTS

ORIENTATION WEEK

Once again, Law School began with Orientation Week. Somewhat amazed Puppies were hit with three days of speeches, advice and presentations. It appeared as though every Law School organization was going to take the opportunity to speak.

Puppies were also given the first glimpse of the Law School social life at Deenie's Weenies, the SLS Wine and Cheese, and finally, at the First Day Back Party.

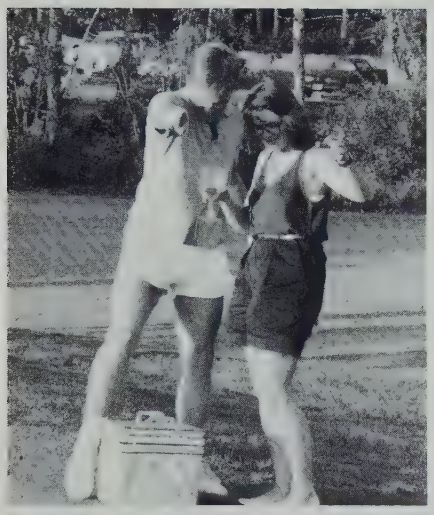
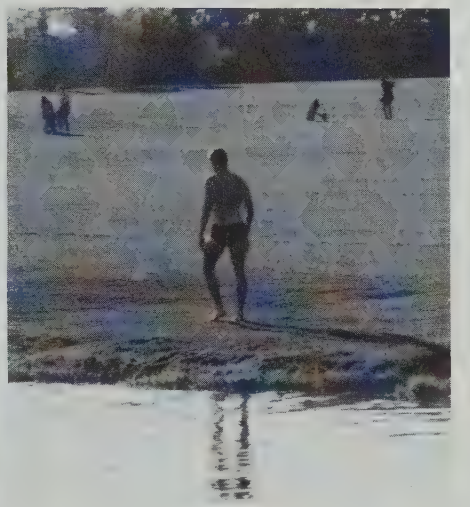
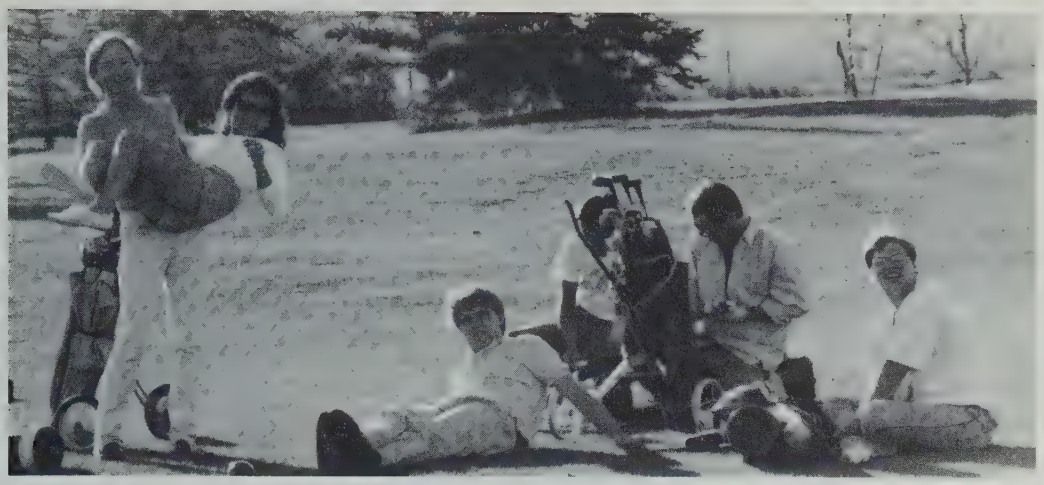
EL HACKO

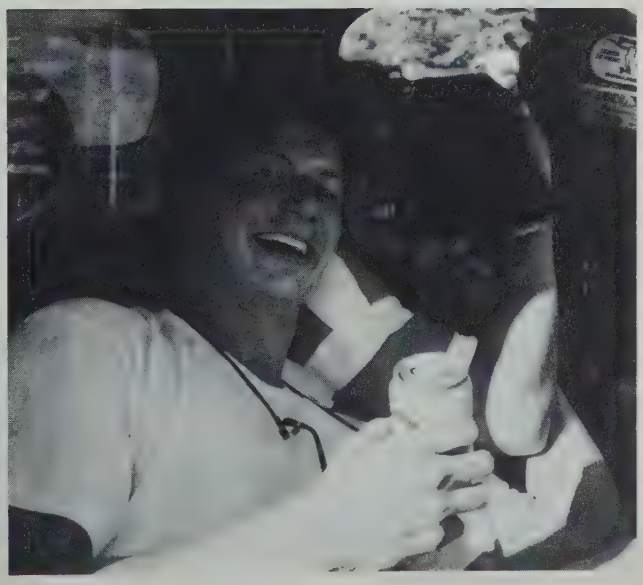
The traditional El Hacko Golf Tournament beckoned many law students out for a final chance to swing the clubs. Some students only golfed three holes, and then sat at the third hole passing on words of advice. Others golfed perpendicular across the holes, and an amazing few even managed to finish all 18 holes. One chap took a moment to go for a dip in one of the water holes!

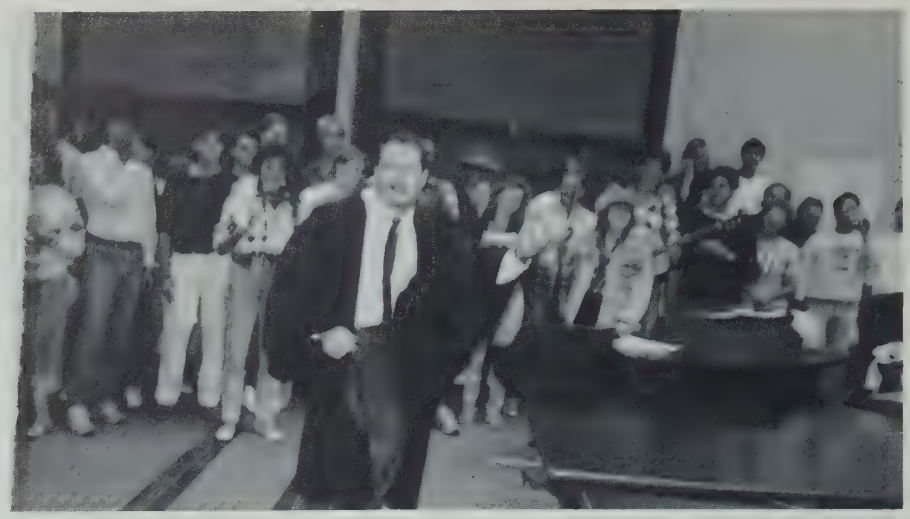




MIDVEST







FUNDAY

Late September saw many law students driving out to the country for Funday at the Farm. Baseball, tug-o-war, and the infamous "spin around the bat" relay kept everyone busy during the day. Later, with the stars twinkling above, everyone chowed down, and two-stepped their way onto the dance floor.
